

CAITLYN KLEINGELD

Having recently graduated as a Chemical Engineering from the University of Pretoria I find myself wanting to be a part of an industry that moves our country towards more sustainable practices.

As an avid hiker and traveller, I have always been interested in environmental affairs, but I found myself overwhelmed by the impact plastic was having on our environment.

After learning more about plastics in industry and the tremendous advantages plastic has over alternative traditional materials, I want to be a part of educating other about the value of plastic products but also how we should be using it sustainably.
